

Please note that it is not appropriate for AMMF to give medical advice or recommendations, and any details provided are for information purposes only.

We have no connection with any of the insurance companies listed below, and their details are given for information only. These are all the companies on AMMF's list but obviously, we can't give recommendations for any company, nor be sure if they still offer cover – many times they change what they will and won't cover, so best to contact them direct and see what they offer. Alternatively, a specialised insurance broker could be a useful first stop. We understand BIBA (British Insurance Brokers Association) Tel: 0370 950 1790, can supply names and phone numbers of insurance brokers.

Points to bear in mind:

- You should be prepared with details of your medical history and any medication you are currently prescribed.
- Different companies use different criteria to decide whether or not they will issue insurance, or by how much the premium may increase with a diagnosis of cancer.
- Some companies may insist that you carry the European Health Insurance card when in Europe. This is available from the Post Office.

Please note that you may be on the telephone for some time, and calls may be expensive. Calls from mobiles may be charged at higher rates.
